PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The term for 1924-1925 which opened so auspiciously on Monday, September 16, was closed at the advice of the school physician March 25, on account of the prevalence of scarlet fever and a threatened epidemic of that most dreaded disease. The service of a trained nurse was promptly secured, the two cases were isolated, and a strict quarantine maintained. This prompt action kept the disease from spreading, and the children who had contracted this dreadful fever, not only escaped serious results, but the little girl had gained twelve pounds and the little boy sixteen pounds when the quarantine was lifted.

A progressive step in the curriculum was the dividing of the classes into grades, adopting as nearly as possible the standard of the public schools. Teachers and children quickly became adjusted to this new order of classes and soon proved that it was a move in the right direction.

November 21, birthday of Miss Susan B. Merwin, our beloved former superintendent, was commemorated by the dedication of two beautiful and imposing bronze lamps on either side of the front steps. These were presented by friends as a mark of appreciation and esteem.

The children and faculty were greatly grieved when they learned on February 8 of the passing away of Dr. Isaac A. Lederman, who, by his great skill, kind and sympathetic manner, had done so much for the school. For a number of years, this big hearted man served without fee in his very able capacity as eye, ear, and throat specialist.

The fireproof building which contains new, up-to-date oil burners and a thoroughly equipped, modern laundry was opened for inspection February 18. Much labor will be saved in the firing of this heating plant, and a great deal of smoke and grime, undesirable products of a coal furnace, will be done away with. Then, too, it is a great relief to the Board of Visitors and the Superintendent to have the boilers taken out of the house and placed in a separate building.

The school for the colored children was the scene of several splendid piano recitals and first class entertainments. The commencement in June demonstrated the fact that they had worked hard and faithfully in their literary and music departments, while the display of articles made by them in the industrial department would have done credit to children with perfect vision. Two boys were graduated to take their places in the world as respectable, self-supporting citizens.

We are greatly indebted to the various music clubs and friends in the city, who so generously provided tickets and invitations for the children to attend many enjoyable and instructive concerts, lectures and entertainments.

At Hallowe'en, ghosts, witches, hob-goblins, and other strange, uncouth creatures ran wild about the school with weird noises and queer invitations to follow them. Some led the boys to the Club House while others induced the girls to follow them to the Gymnasium. Judging from the noise which issued from both places, the children had a most wonderful time. The Christmas Season was so crammed full of presents, good things, to eat and parties both in and away from the school that many pleasures planned had to be postponed until the next Christmas. St. Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day were celebrated with appropriate parties in the evening.

The boys and girls spent several most enjoyable week ends and holidays at Martin Lodge, a pretty little rustie bungalow located in the country about fourteen miles from the school. This cottage is in the midst of a woods three-quarters of a mile from a large artificial lake which affords much sport and pleasure in fishing, swimming and boating. It has three good-sized rooms and two large screened porches. Perhaps the most attractive, as well as comfortable, feature is a big, old-fashioned stone fireplace which, when fed with logs, heats the house and furnishes excellent opportunities to roast apples and chestnuts and toast marshmallows while the children sit about the cozy living room telling stories and enjoying the change from school life. This little house not only affords the children pleasure, but it also is valuable in teaching them, particularly the scouts, many lessons in caring for the home, for, while there, they help prepare the meals and keep the place in order.

A new, more up-to-date building to be used as a workshop for the boys is sorely needed. For more than fifty years this department has been conducted in cramped quarters over the stable. With more convenience and space, several necessary pieces of machinery could be placed and the scope of the work greatly enlarged. We also need two cottages to contain about twenty children each, one for the little boys, and one for the little girls. With two such houses as these, much good can be accomplished by giving these little tots more homelike surroundings and avoiding the contact and association of the older children. A bill will be introduced at the next General Assembly asking for an appropriation for this purpose. This body and the Governor are deeply interested in the progress of our school, and we feel confident of their support in this matter.

H. D. ORMSBY,
Acting President.

SUGGESTIONS TO PARENTS AND FRIENDS

It is a mistaken kindness to pamper a child too much because he is blind. At the very earliest he should be taught to walk and do things for himself. His sense of touch should be cultivated in every possible manner. He should be given small articles of various shapes and different degrees of smoothness and hardness so that he could gradually gain efficiency in the sense of touch. It is not necessary for one to lead even a small child everywhere he wishes to go, and if he should drop something on the floor, it is much better for him to find it than it is for some one to pick it up for him. The blind child cannot be taught the lesson of self-reliance too soon. Teach him to dress himself and to attend to his personal wants at the very beginning. Cleanliness and table manners should be taught him even more carefully than you would your seeing child.

Proper carriage is of the utmost importance. See that the child sits up straight, stands erect, and walks in the proper manner. All tendencies to faeial distortion, grimacing, and poking the finger into the eyes should be broken at the very first appearance of such common habits. Rocking from one side to the other, weaving the body from side to side, wriggling the fingers, and shaking the head are very difficult to stop when oncee acquired.

Tell and read to your child juvenile stories. Never talk in his presence of things he ought not to hear; there is an old saying that, "little pitchers have big ears." Remember, though your child is blind, he has the power of absorbing a great deal. Do not refer to his blindness when he is present. It is positively cruel to him to let him have his own way about everything. Discipline him firmly and judiciously, or he will be miserable, discontented, and very difficult to manage when he grows older.

It is very unjust to the child to keep him at home and not send him to a school just as soon as age or circumstance will permit. The school with its corps of sympathetic, well-trained teachers is the only place where your child can be thoroughly taught to become a self-supporting and a respected citizen. While the child is attending school, you can do much for him by writing cheerful letters. When his monthly reports are received, if satisfactory, commend him; if not, show him that you are not pleased and that you expect a much better report the next time.

His vacations should not be spent in communicating with his fellow pupils, for he will see enough of them during the school session. It would be very helpful to the child if light chores and special household duties were assigned to him daily while he is at home.

An "eye doctor," optician, or any ordinary medicine man should not be allowed to treat such a delicate organ as the eye. There are at present a number of first-class oculists and free government clinics in the State of Kentucky ready and eager to do what they can for your child.

In almost every State in the Union there are free schools for the various defective classes. Kentucky established her school for the blind in 1842, being the eighth school of the kind in the country. The purpose of the State in founding the school was to give to the child with defective sight as good an education as is offered to the seeing child, and, in addition, to give it instruction in manual training.

In 1884, the General Assembly passed an act providing for the addition of a department in a separate building, and distinct from the whites, for the education of the colored blind children of the State.

In carrying out the purposes of the founders of this public school for the blind, the board has endeavored to meet the expectations of a wise and beneficent public sentiment. They have tried to follow in the line first marked out by those eminent men who founded and for many years guided the progress of the school. With this end in view, they have secured skillful and devoted teachers, good and faithful servants, improved educational appliances, and have provided that the children under their control shall be properly and kindly cared for, thus providing the advantages of a high-class boarding school, free of cost, for all blind children.

Notwithstanding all this, about 50 per cent of the blind children of Kentucky, between the teachable ages of six and sixteen years of age, are growing up in ignorance, without any share in the great advantages so freely offered by the State.

The American idea for a school for the blind is as far removed from it being an asylum, on the one hand, as it is from its being a hospital for the treatment of diseased eyes, on the other hand.

Its work is strictly educational, and it is established, not out of charity for the afflicted, but from a sense of justice that recognizes the fact that, under the principles of our government, a free education is the birthright of every child in the Republic.

A blind child or one with defective sight, should be sent to school as soon as it can get along without a nurse, say at six or seven years of age. Every year's delay after that time renders the task of its education more difficult and incomplete. From the moment it reaches the school, the sense of touch has to be persistently trained. The kindergarten, with its great variety of devices and employment for busy fingers, is of inestimable value for this purpose, and the work done by the children in this department arrests the attention and excites the admiration of the most careless visitor.

After the kindergarten, the child studies things and models of things; and in its study of geography, models in sand and clay, the surface of his state and country, and the grand divisions of the globe; he is taught to read and write and cipher; he studies grammar, history, natural philosophy and all the branches of a good education.

If he has any musical ability, it is scientifically and sedulously cultivated, for it is in the practice of the art of music that he can compete with his seeing comrades on more equal terms than in any other occupation.

He is also given instruction in the workshop, where he learns to cane chairs, make brooms, mops, baskets, and to do simple carpentry and upholstery, such as the repairing of lounges and the manufacture of mattresses. If he is capable of learning it, he is taught the art of piano tuning, in which art several of our graduates have obtained well-deserved success. Graduates of our school are in charge of the music departments in the schools for the blind in Louisiana and Arkansas.

The girls are carefully taught the use of the needle and learn, as they progress, how to patch and darn and mend, how to knit, how to use the sewing machine, and how to cut out, fit together and make their own garments. They are also taught basketry and weaving, and given a thorough course in domestic science, which includes the care of a house and the preparation and cooking of food.

In this course of study and development, extending over eight or ten years, the blind child gains a confidence in his own power that enables it to overcome, to a great extent, the natural awkwardness of blindness. It has become a youth of intelligence, an agreeable companion, a self-respecting, independent person, familiar with current events, with a well-trained mind and familiar with the amenities of civilized life. He is, to a considerable extent, prepared to earn a living for himself.

To withhold from a child such opportunities is a serious mistake, while no greater kindness can be shown such a child than to secure for it the advantages of an education. The school year begins the second Wednesday in September and closes the second Wednesday in June, and at the close the children are returned to their homes, as it is the desire of the trustees to maintain, as far as possible, the home ties of the child.

TERMS OF ADMISSION.

In respect to the forms to go through to secure the admission of a child to the Kentucky School for the Blind, it is only required that the child be of so defective vision as to be unable to get an education in the ordinary schools; that it be of good health and sound mind, and within the ages of six and eighteen, for it must be remembered that the institution is neither a hospital nor an asylum. No charge is made for board or tuition. The school session begins on the second Wednesday in September and closes the second Wednesday in June. Pupils will be admitted at any time within these dates, but they are much benefited by beginning promptly at the first of the session. The children all return to their homes in the summer.

If fuller information is desired, it may be had from the Superintendent or from any of the trustees, who will cheerfully correspond with any person wishing to place a blind child in the institution.

REPORT OF THE KENTUCKY WORKSHOP FOR THE ADULT BLIND

The Kentucky Workshop for the Adult Blind is under the same management but separate and apart from the school with a special appropriation for its maintenance.

This department was established in March, 1913, by Mr. C. B. Martin in two rooms at Frankfort Avenue and Williams Street, where two blind men were employed at making mops. The business continued to grow and three small cottages were next rented; one was used for a shop; one for a store room, and the other for sleeping quarters for the men who lived out of the city and were brought there to learn the trade. Broom making on a small scale was then introduced.

Up to this period the shop has been maintained by sales of mops and brooms and contributions from friends and various organizations. It was decided, however, to ask for help from the State to enlarge the work. A committee from the Legislature inspected the shop and were so well pleased with the start that had been made they pledged their support to obtain financial aid from the State. It was through their efforts and the help of other kind friends that an annual appropriation of $14,000 was secured. The money became available April 1, 1918, at which time the workshop became the property of the State, and equipment and stock on hand valued at $2,000 was given over. Then work on a much more extensive scale was begun.

On July 1, 1918, a home teacher was engaged. Many families in different parts of the State have been visited, and many blind adults in their homes have been taught to read, write, sew, and knit. They have been shown how to improve their home conditions, and many of them have been induced to take up their former occupations. One was taught to wind armatures and since that time has been employed in a large electric plant; others came to the shop where they have been taught to make mops and brooms and are now self-supporting.

Since 1918, the appropriation has been increased to $20,000. On June 1, 1925, one of the three units planned for the Kentucky Workshop for the Adult Blind was opened. This is a two story, fireproof structure, well lighted and ventilated, and furnished with the very latest machines for mattress work and rug making. This building which means so much to the adult blind of the State also reflects great credit on those who made it possible and enhances the beauty and value of its locality. The work for the adult blind has been greatly enlarged and is now established on a firm business basis.

All articles made at the Kentucky Workshop for the Adult Blind find a ready market because of the standard of excellence they have attained.

The following persons have been employed:

A Foreman, Mr. Samuel Merwin, with a salary of $150.00 per month.

An Assistant Foreman, Mr. Clarence Lucas, with a salary of $115.00 per month.

A Bookkeeper, Miss Mary Louise Maloney, with a salary of $70.00 per month. (Part time.)
